Features.

PAVING CONTRACTS AWARDED

The Automatic Railway Crossing
Company Enlarges Its Capital.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
PETERSBURG, VA., March 5.—A paper on "Religious Life in Colonial Virginia," by the Rev. Dr. C. Braxton Bryan, and a talk by the Rev. Dr. J. C. Goodrich on his work in the Philippine Islands, were the most interesting features of to-day's meeting of the Union Ministerial Association, which was organized here a few months ago by representative clergymen of the Protestant denominations in the city. Both Dr. Bryan and Dr. Goodrich were heard with close attention by the good-sized audience. Dr. Goodrich was an agent for the American Bible Society in the Philippine Islands for six years, leading the work and translating the Scriptures into the native language. The congregations of the Washington Street, Market Street and High Street Methodist Churches were addressed by Dr. Goodrich Sunday morning, afternoon and evening. The Union Ministerial Association to-day took steps to provide assistance to the tramps through Chief of Police Rainald.

PAVING CONTRACTS.

AUTOMATIC SWITCH.

A certificate of amendment to the charter of the Automatic Railway Crossing Company was recorded in the office of the clerk of the courts to-day, increasing the company's maximum of capital stock from one hundred thousand to five hundred thousand dollars. The company was organized by local business men to develop a system of electric and automatic switches designed to prevent collisions at railroad crossings, and invented by G. W. Lancaster, a North Carolinian, long employed by the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad. A charter was granted last August, with a capital stock of $100,000, as the minimum of capital stock, one hundred thousand maximum, which it was recently decided to increase to half a million.

DESPERADO TAKEN BY STRATEGY AND JAILED

Officers Got Between Him and His Deposit of Firearms.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
CULPEPPER, VA., March 5.—Marion Brock, a colored negro outlaw, and for whom the officers of this city and county have been looking for some time, was captured this evening by the city police. He is lately from the Virginia penitentiary and is wanted for several offenses, one of them for shooting with intent to kill John Lewis.

He was taken by strategy, being induced by one he regarded as his friend, to leave his hiding place in which he had his fire-arms and go to the spring for water and his rations, his mother was in the habit of stealthily conveying to him. In the meantime the officers got between him and the negro cabin, and at their command he threw up his hands and was handcuffed and taken to jail.

His preliminary trial will take place before Mayor Bell to-morrow.

VIRGINIA BRIEFS

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
DANVILLE, VA., March 5.—Joe Williams, who some months ago held two white boys up near the city limits and made them surrender their shotgun, was given eight years in the Corporation Court to-day.

LYNCHBURG, VA.—J. Frank Hudson, formerly a police officer, was indicted by the same jury on the charge of forging the name of a well-known doctor as the donor of $20,000. Hudson denies the charge and the note in question has mysteriously disappeared. Hudson has been dismissed from the police force on the charge of conduct unbecoming an officer.

NORFOLK, VA.—Louis Brown was indicted by the grand jury to-day for the murder of George Reese, who died from burns received as the result of the explosion of a lighted lamp thrown at her by Brown. The trial was set in the Corporation Court for March 12th.

WINCHESTER, VA.—Judge Atkinson,

of the Corporation Court, to-day heard the appeal cases of Bennett and Pettie Anderson, who, with others, were recently convicted in the Police Court and sentenced to the State Reform School for looting the home of John Boutwell during his absence. The court sentenced each to sixty days in jail over a violation of the Commonwealth-Attorney Reardon. The boys are the youngest prisoners ever confined in jail here, and unless closely watched they could crawl through the prison bars.

ROMANCE AND TRAGEDY.

Miss Small, Who Eloped, Returns With Corpse of Her Lover.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
NELLYS FORD, NELSON COUNTY, VA., March 5.—The body of Mr. Edward S. Woodson, who died in a hospital in Washington, D. C., arrived here to-day. Mr. Woodson was the son of Mr. James Woodson, a prosperous farmer of Shelton, Va. He came to call on Miss Lola Small, daughter of Mr. A. T. Small, manager for Kistler, Lish and Company, of this place. Thursday morning, young Woodson took Miss Small for a drive, and it was supposed that he was going to be an elopement. The couple drove to Fabers, Va., and there took a Southern train for Washington, arriving there too late at night to get a license. The couple stopped at a hotel for the night, and it was not until the next day, early the next morning, that he was discovered escaping from young Woodson's room. An entrance being forced he was found to be in an unconscious condition. He was taken to a hospital and was accompanied by the bride, who remained in the hospital until the next day. Young Woodson met Miss Small at a wedding on February 14th. Both of the parties were under age.

CLYDE LINE STEAMER NARRATIVE IS ASHORE

Inky Black, With Driving Storm, and Captain Could Not Keep His Bearings.

(By Associated Press.)
WILMINGTON, N. C., March 5.—While proceeding to sea Saturday night, 24, about 7 o'clock, the Clyde Line steamer Navaho, Captain C. M. Hale, was caught in a southwest gale just inside the Cape Fear bar, and was driven ashore on middle shoal, about the same location where the schooner General Adelbert Ames foundered about three weeks ago. Unsuccessful efforts were made by the United States revenue cutter Seminole, the tugs Marion and Blanche and the steamer Compton to float the vessel Sunday. Attempt will be made to float the vessel on high-tide to-morrow morning. The vessel is lying easy, and is in no peril with favorable weather.

Seymour Merrell, of Wilmington, was the only passenger aboard, and returned to this city on the tugs, proceeding by rail to New York. The weather was extremely rough Saturday night. Inky black, with a driving rain-storm.

Captain Hale says it was impossible for him to keep his bearings, and owing to the heavy rain and the bow of the vessel being headed in.
